DIRECTION AND OUTLOOK

Steve Wilson works with organizations that want to make work enjoyable and productive, and he works with professionals who want their careers to be the best time of their lives!

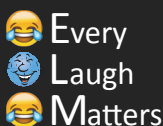

He is a psychologist and professional consultant who believes in keeping a smile on your face, especially at work! Steve knows a positive environment keeps staff happy and motivated. And one of the best ways he's found for people to stay motivated is through a good sense of humor.

Steve's long-standing concern with the relationship between work, mental health, and well-being launched his career that blossomed into illuminating and improving the human condition by exploring the nearly magical mysteries of laughter, humor and mirth.

Steve successfully helped create positive environments so people would find life more workable and work more livable. Under his guidance, businesses prosper and personal lives are enriched. His focus on helping organizations be more productive and getting the most out of each person now encompasses the overall enjoyment of life, health, happiness, and peace.

Steve is the creator of cost-effective yet powerful, innovative and uplifting programs that reduce stress, prevent burnout, promote healing, and make the world a better place.

Steve's ideal organization promotes a climate where people are eager to do their best. Where they enjoy working. Where they handle stress with ease. Where more gets done, and faster. Where the most desired reward is the joy of accomplishment.
